Our Book Club Charter

Short enough to fit on one page, long enough to cover the fights we intend to never have.

CLUB NAME

FOUNDED IN / AROUND

Our purpose: We gather to read one book at a time in good company — to be curious together, to disagree like grown-ups, and to never leave anyone's snack behind.

The deal, in seven lines

- ☐ What we read: anything a member picks — fiction, nonfiction, cookbook, spacecraft manual. Quality varies. Love endures.
- ☐ When we meet: _____monthly-ish, and we skip politely when life happens.
- ☐ Host rotates: the picker hosts (or passes); hosting means a room, some snacks, and zero obligation to a three course meal.
- ☐ Pick rotates: no one picks twice in a row; the tracker sheet keeps us honest.
- ☐ Spoiler policy: past the stop-at page we mark _____no spoilers. If in doubt, wave it off and wait.
- ☐ Disagreement is welcome: argue with the book, not the people. Everyone's hot take is trying its best.
- ☐ Attendance is not homework: you're welcome if you skimmed, stalled, or came hungry. No tests are given.

We also honor

- ☐ Check-in and check-out sentences for everyone
- ☐ Remote members get full voice, not guest status
- ☐ The cheddar clause (see snack sheet)

Amendments

Any member may propose a change; the club votes; snacks are consumed while we wait.
