Snack & Seating Checklist

People can push through a slow chapter; nobody pushes through a rock-hard chair. This page looks after both.

Snacks

- ☐ Crunchy thing (pretzels, chips, carrots)
- ☐ Soft-sweet thing (cookies, clementines)
- ☐ One “theme” snack tied to the book, if fun
- ☐ Napkins — talk-and-eat insurance
- ☐ Water for everyone + a refill pitcher
- ☐ Tea or coffee for the tea-and-coffee people

- ☐ Checked member-card allergy notes
- ☐ Vegetarian / gluten-free option ready
- ☐ Nothing garlicky enough to liven up the debate too much

Seating & room

- ☐ Seat for every confirmed member
- ☐ One cushiony bonus seat for a plus-one
- ☐ Floor spot with a pillow for overflow seating
- ☐ Lamps on, overhead light off (or down)
- ☐ Table flat enough for books & mugs
- ☐ Music off, notifications on silent
- ☐ Book piles shuffled so no one squints
- ☐ Wi-Fi password written where guests sit (remote-friendly)

- ☐ Remote member’s view: light on face, sound on
- ☐ Tissues out (a good book can do that)

The night-of sweep

- ☐ Glasses, plates, popcorn bits corralled
- ☐ Timer or candle moment — set the tone

SNACK BUDGET OR COSTS TO SPLIT

Zero-effort fallbacks

No time to shop? Crackers + a sharp cheddar is a perfectly good club snack. Team has never once complained. The book is the point; the cheddar is the garnish.
